

ADOC Becomes a Consulting Partner on Salesforce AppExchange, the Leading Enterprise Cloud Marketplace

Provar, the dedicated Salesforce test automation solution for enhanced quality improvement

ADOC International Co., Ltd. (headquarters: Tachikawa City, Tokyo, CEO: Joji Kobayashi / hereinafter referred to as ADOC), the exclusive national distributor of Provar, the only test automation tool dedicated to Salesforce platform has today become a Salesforce AppExchange Consultant. This allows customers to connect with optimal Salesforce Certified Consultants for their specific business needs. ADOC will use its Salesforce test automation technology to improve Salesforce development, operation, and maintenance processes as well as enhance Salesforce's quality improvement.

Currently, ADOC's consultant overview page (listing page) is located on the AppExchange's [Consulting Partner] page (a section of the AppExchange for customers looking for deep Salesforce knowledge and industry expertise). By using the AppExchange's new consultant search feature [Consultant Finder], customers can choose over 200 consulting partners in Japan to find experts to solve their individual business challenges. Clients can select experts based on specialization, location, company size, customer ratings and the insight gained from thousands of customer projects completed by over 65,000 certified consultants.

In the field of Salesforce development, implementation, and maintenance, there are many cases where applications are customized to implement unique functions or to fit a customer's business flow, in order to ensure and maintain quality, continuous and comprehensive testing is required. Provar overcomes risks of the validation process, including the reliance and cost of manual testing, and its advanced automated features allow for rapid deployment of high-quality applications that adapt to the latest Salesforce updates and releases.

In the future, ADOC will solve various issues faced by Salesforce development and QA teams, as well as support the needs of building advanced automated test environments to improve the quality of Salesforce applications and the integrated environments that they connect to. Through this certification, we will further increase the business value of Salesforce and the entire ecosystem by providing optimal automation solutions with Provar products at the core, from consulting and design of test automation on the Salesforce platform to implementation support, education, operation, and maintenance of these systems.
